Overflow At Game Causes Field Crisis

Bleacher Construction Work Rushed; Crowds Cause Damage To New Turf

Another crisis in the building of Roberts' Stadium seemed imminent as work was begun yesterday to complete the bleachers before Friday night. The point was reached when Allen Howard was forced to resign from the job of supervising the construction to take a permanent job elsewhere.

Finish Or Else

General sentiment had it that the bleachers would have to be finished by game time Friday night, or the college could just as well forget construction of the remaining section of approximately 60 feet in length. Overflow conditions that prevailed at the first game had the officials-in-charge worried at the effect the crowds had on the new turf at the field.

While plans were being made to rope off areas to prevent spreading of sideline crowds on the field during the course of the game, a move was being made on the campus to enlist the aid of city officials to secure adequate State aid to insure the construction of stands to hold anticipated crowds for the Marin and San Francisco Junior College crowds and for other events.

Expect Overflow

With the showing of the Purple and Gold team indicating that the coming games will be on even terms and will draw the interest of a good portion of the fans of San Francisco, observers were trying to determine just how the officials will be able to handle the seating arrangements for the Junior College game especially. The question was raised after the opening game of last Friday night when a large proportion of the spectators seemed to be people from outside of the college. Coupled with the fact that the combined student bodies of both San Francisco State and San Francisco Junior College will more than tax the present seating capacity, another crisis will face Coach Dave Cox and others in charge of constructing the field.

In order to speed the construction of the remaining bleacher section, a new NYA list has been posted for the month of October. Persons on the list are urged to get as much time in as possible by Friday.

Spurs Construction

Coach Dave Cox, working to complete the remainder of the bleachers on Roberts' Stadium, is shown here beside the unfinished section. Work is being rushed on the stands in anticipation of overflow crowds for the next games on the Gater schedule.

Treasurer Reveals Critical Condition of Student Funds

We've Just Begun to Fight!

"We've just begun to fight!"

This should be the cry of every State student. It should be the ideal, the driving force behind every holder of a student association card when Roberts' Stadium is mentioned.

Roberts' Stadium! The very thought that State has an athletic field, no matter how meager, should make every student want to fight to make it bigger. To construct the necessary bleachers to handle the overflow crowds. To see a permanent turf on the field. To make Roberts' Stadium the finest athletic plant in the city! These should be the driving ideals of the student body.

Roberts Stadium! Why should we of San Francisco State College be forced to do miracles with a limited amount of money? Why should other State colleges be granted new buildings, more funds, etc.? Why shouldn't San Francisco State College be recognized?

Roberts Stadium! The opening wedge in a fight to gain major recognition from this city and from the State in general that we are a growing institution, one that is deserving of a lot more than the powers that be have seen fit to grant to us.

Roberts' Stadium! The vision of a red headed fellow that wouldn't say die. He wanted a field for the college. He worked from dawn to dusk. His spark should ignite a bonfire of opinion that won't burn out until Roberts' Stadium is just that. The finest athletic plant of its class.

Cockrum Makes Assertion Of Finance Okay

President Says College To Have More Money Than Last Year Despite Report

A split in the ranks of the Associated Students was expected as further news of the condition of finances of the association was revealed.

Asserting that the college would have as much money if not more than last semester, Edward Cockrum, president of the association, was confident that the affair could be glossed over, although he failed to state from what sources the money would be forthcoming.

The financial crisis was revealed by the report of the Treasurer to the executive board at a meeting held one week ago. It revealed that the college would have the sum of $141 to run on for the remainder of the term.

According to the report released through Darryl Hopkins and Mr. Leo C. Nee, the student association will pay $375 on the lights at Roberts' Field. From somewhere, if indications are correct, an additional $375 will be forthcoming. Inasmuch as the student association treasury will have only $141 it has caused some comment as to who will meet the rest of the second payment.

Expenditures listed on the report have brought the fire of one group in the college. The list includes such items as $183 for the trip taken by Edward Morgan and Cockrum to a convention at Los Angeles last semester. Other expenditures under fire include the purchase of Executive Board pins at $77.76; Delta Sigma pins at $31.50; Telephone $79.19; Gavel and Block, $13.39.

Some items were expected to be returned to the treasury later in the semester. However, the sum is not expected to reach the proportion necessary to conduct the affairs.

Very few persons in the college have been acquainted with the facts of the asserted raids on the treasury by the former student officials.

According to the financial statement, the student treasury was $457.22 in the hole at the start of the semester. This, added to the cost of the field lights, has depleted the revenue brought in during the sale of student association cards of the present semester.

New Yells Taught Daily At Rooters Noonday Meet

Chicken Ball Revival Here

A. P. G. To Present True Replica Of Old San Francisco

On November 4th something entirely new in the form of entertainment will be presented at the college, according to a statement from Elsa Magnus, president of State's journalistic fraternity, Alpha Phi Gamma. It will be a show modeled after the famous Chicken's Ball of pre-earthquake days and will offer many of the inducements of that event.

Frederic Burk Auditorium has been chosen as the scene of the affair and elaborate list of acts is being lined up. There will be numerous prizes and cups awarded to those organizations and individuals who demonstrate their merit. Every class and organization in the school has been or will be asked to participate by supplying some part of the entertainment.

Committees are already organized and tickets will be on sale during the next few days. Each member of the fraternity has certain clubs and classes to contact personally in regard to features. That there might also be incidental dancing after the awarding of prizes was a possibility considered by the committee. No decision has been reached as yet.

The Chicken's Ball, as it is being called, is also tied up with a strong purpose. It has been chosen as the means of raising the necessary fund to continue the semi-annual John Henry Nash and Alpha Gamma Scholarships. The fraternity has already brought three outstanding high school scholars to the college and intends to continue on with this same policy. Much favorable comment and publicity has come to the college as a result of these scholarships according to statements from chapter officials.

Cast Names Released By Show Group

Anne Lundquist Mentioned For Lead in "Post Road" Show

Announcement of the cast for "Post Road," first production of College Theater for the Fall season, was the major news from the Little Theater. Leroy Armstrong and Carola Beetz were among those mentioned for leads in the production. Anne Lundquist, star of the last semester production, "Sun-up," will also have a stellar role.

Others mentioned in the first line-up announced by the College Theater include Roy Laugesen; Leah Cleek; Bernhard de Bishop; Earl Drew; Vic Gilday; Bee Harris; Ruth Hutchinson; Doris MacDonald; Anne Rassmussen; Geo. Rochambeau and Clem Zannini. Zannini has gained recent reknown by his work on the Magic of Speech

Candlelight Dinner Is Cancelled

Lack of Enthusiasm To Invitation Cause Of Decisions Made

Traditions have been thrown over again for economic reasons and this time it is the Candlelight Dinner that was held during the Christmas holidays. The drastic move was made at the executive board meeting last Monday.

The original purpose of the dinner was one to further publicity of State. In the beginning invitations were sent to leading people in the educational field so that they might meet the students attending here and also see what they had to offer in educational instruction.

In the past three years, the invitations have been sent and very little response was given to them. It had become more of a social time to a limited group of students and a large cost to the individual.

Along with the lack of interest, the Student Body has had to put up approximately $200 to finance the dinner. It was decided that it would be much better to give something that could be enjoyed by the entire student body.

The decision to cancel the Candlelight dinner came after Ed Cockrum and members of the board had lengthy conferences with Dr. Roberts, Dean Ward, faculty members and a large number of the student body. Then it was voted on by the entire executive board.

In speaking of lack of interest by the students, Dean Ward said, "They do not accept invitations because they are tired of coming to it every year."

CORRECTION

The meeting of the French Club will be held on Tuesday at noon instead of Monday as was announced in the Friday edition of the Golden Gater.

High Frosh Hold Party

Sponsored by the High Freshmen class, a dinner was held in the Co-op Thursday evening from 5:30 to 6:30, with Marshall Blum, presiding. The sum of ten cents was charged, the rest of the money being paid by the frosh treasury.

Chairman Blum expressed his appreciation to those who attended, but regretted that not enough high freshmen were present. Bud Decker, Bill Ferem and Bill Abbey were asked to speak; they were interrupted by a round of applause.

The majority of those present expressed satisfaction with the dinner, which consisted of fruit salad, roast beef, biscuits, string beans, baked potatoes. All of which were topped off with pie a la mode and coffee.

Major Studio Films Are Billed on Varsity Show

Over four times as much film is being used in the current presentation of Varsity Theatre than in the student reels shown last semester, was the announcement today of Erwin Bischoff, chairman of the project.

"Not only are we using much more film," he declared, "but we have improved on our technique and are using difficult angle shots, fade-ins, fade-outs and panoramic views. We have secured some very interesting candid camera shots of students in rather unconventional postures and occupations which will be a riot. We took a lot of these without the students knowing it, so they had better be on hand to see them."

Present plans are to include major studio pictures on the program, being secured at reduced prices through a commercial film company. "College Co-Eds," a collegiate comedy, has been tentatively selected to head the list of special attractions, which include animated cartoons and travelogues.

Technicolor films will be another feature of the program. "You can compare our offerings with those of any downtown theatre, and we'll stack up plenty high," was Bischoff's enthusiastic prediction.

FROM THIS SIDE

By BILL BUCHAN

"We're Broke," seems to have stirred up some comment among the student leaders. In fact, as we predicted, Ed. Cockrum was the first to approach us. In all due fairness to Ed and the Executive Board we are turning over a portion of this column to his answer.

We realize that we have presented only one side of the question. As a matter of fact, we slipped up a bit on the figures. Yet that side of the question is based on facts gleaned from the financial reports of the student association. Still Ed. Cockrum may be able to give us the interpretation of the facts that will satisfy so many answers to the questions that have us in doubt.

The facts are obvious. When we see such items as the following: President and Treasurer trip to Los Angeles, $183.40; Executive Board pins $77.76; Debating, $108.87; we wonder. The sum total of these items would just about pay for the second half of the second installment of the lights on Roberts' Field.

It seems that there is a general feeling that the Board is deserving of the favors it grants itself. That is, the feeling comes from those that are on the board or close to its members. Yet, how much more deserving are they than the editor of the Franciscan? How much more deserving are they than the various club presidents.

But we want to play fair. So we give you Ed. Cockrum's answer.

Ed Cockrum Answers

In the last issue of the "Golden Gater" the Associated Students were accused of being flat broke. The impression created was that the students' money had been squandered by irresponsible officers, for their own selfish ends. Insinuations of graft and politics were also added to make the list complete.

An invitation was issued to me to call upon the editor and be put wise to my surroundings. Now may I invite the editor to read this article and be put wise himself on a few facts he seems to be totally in the dark about.

Fact 1. THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS ARE NOT BROKE!

The editor with a bit of investigation might have discovered that the Student Body finances are run by budget. Each phase of student activity is taken care of by this means. This year, because of the raised student fee, many of the items of the budget were raised, namely—

Men's athletics, Associated Women Students, Associated Men Students, Debating, Music

Federation. So we see that all these student organizations are still functioning better than ever, and with more money to carry out their programs.

For General Student Body use, the budget allots $100. This generally gives the Student Executive Board about $1,400 to administer. The majority of this money has been used in the form of appropriations to various clubs and activities on the campus and is not used by the General Student Body. The total sum of appropriations last semester was $814.30. A glance at the Student Body expense sheet will show that actual Student Body needs were $323.97 for last semester.

Because of the necessity of lighting Roberts' Field, the Student Body drew on its account for $750, which necessitated leaving this administration with a deficit.

Fact 2. Now what has the Student government done this year?

This, as in other semesters the Student Body received $1,400 as its budget item. To date we have done this:

1. Paid up a $457.22 deficit from last semester.
2. Paid an installment of $375 on the lights for Roberts' Field.
3. Given $100 to the Music Federation so that various musical units may be sent out thru the State.
4. Completely outfitted the Yell Leaders in College style at $100.
5. Paid $40 for motion picture equipment so that campus activities may be recorded in film.
6. Paid $5 to Harold Martin, so as to join the National Publicity Association.
7. Paid $182 to classes.

From our original item of $1,400 we have $141 of that sum left. We receive $112 from the Assemblies fund, we receive $70 from Deputations. This is a total of $323 for this semester's use. It cost $323.97 to cover Student Body expenses of last semester.

Now, Mr. Editor, does this convince you of the fact that the Associated Students are not broke? And Mr. Editor, are you convinced that the crowd at Roberts' Field Friday night has justified the support of the Student Body?

Mr. Editor, may I again invite you to call on me and be put wise to the fact that an editor should have all the facts of a situation before issuing criticism, and also that student government is not going to be forgotten!

And a word to the Student Body. The student government is yours, the Executive meetings are open to all who wish to attend. If you have a criticism, or a helpful suggestion come to the meeting and air your views.

ED. COCKRUM,
President Associated Students.

Thots While Strolling the Campus:

Thank to Louise Parodi, Chairman, the Freshman Reception was one of the most successful ever held. Hazing of Freshmen girls, the brainchild of Frances Lynn, has been voted as a permanent affair now by the A. W. S. The girls were good sports and all had a swell time, despite the Mystic Maze, the paddles, and Peanut Pushes, with Noses. Word comes from L. A. that Ruth Berg, prominent grad of last term, will announce her wedding date to a southern boy shortly—all of which leaves us in a spot on account we bet on the wrong one. Bud Decker and Audrey Stewart are together so often now—and we know that they're not practicing yells, either! Thank to Al Lewis' snappy roadster, Gertrude Boyle gets to class just in time. Some fun, eh, kid! Cecilia Storch is humming that old refrain, "Waiting for Ships That Never Come In" as she scans the shipping news daily in the lib. Why did Mrs. Ginger Barnes, Caf. cashier, and Bill Ferem, Fresh Proxy, resent the intrusion of a third party in their booth the other day. Among our budding romances are Mike Gibney and Frances Lynn, as well as Bill Kelly and Betty Fisher. Bill Regan and Charlotte Steffins must have decided to "Carry On" on account of their summer romance is still standing the change of weather. 'Tis said they have "madness in their method." Who? Why, Muriel Senk and J. W. Gallagher who usually manage to get the last booth in the Co-op!

What Would You Suggest?

The Candlelight Dinner is doomed. For many years it has existed as a climax for the Fall term's activities, but due to limited finances and lack of student support it has been shelved.

However, various students feel that some social event should mark the conclusion of the semester and the sentiment is widely voiced that this affair shall be much less elaborate in nature than the expensive formal banquets that have been given the last few years at a great financial burden to the student body.

Two plans have come to our attention: One that the Candlelight Dinner be returned to its original form... that of an informal dinner held in the gymnasium by candlelight where recognition was given to outstanding student leaders for their work during the semester. This dinner might be inexpensively served from the Corrective Room, be very informal in set-up and if properly handled might even prove a financial asset.

The other idea would be the elaboration of an affair similar to the Christmas Jinx sponsored by the Associated Students last semester. It would feature a dinner where awards for sports, etc., would be given, followed by a dance and Christmas party.

This represents the student opinion we have heard and we would like to hear any other practical plans that would not involve the Student Body financially but would carry on the spirit and tradition of the Candlelight Dinner.

Students Hold Straw Vote

Are you in favor of continuing Roosevelt as President of the country, or do you prefer the policies Landon has outlined thus far? Perhaps instead you would like to see a complete change and for that reason like Norman Thomas or Earl Browder for the highest executive job in the land. Also how do you feel about the Townsend Plan? Do you believe it is a workable controllable solution for our economic problems. These questions will be answered, at least as far as Staters are concerned, when yesterday's and today's straw vote is tallied up.

The vote here at the school may seem a small affair to the average student, but its real importance cannot be minimized. It is significant is it not that a Young Democratic Club is growing within the walls as it were? Added to this is the fact that the club is no spontaneous idea but instead is a move on the part of the Democratic party to interest the college student in national affairs and politics. The strength of this movement in the schools of the country is much greater than most people realize and the actual interest taken by the party itself is of no mean proportions. The only regrettable thing is that there isn't a club representing each of the other parties.

On the surface it seems almost sure that Roosevelt will walk off with first honors and room to spare. Yet it will be interesting to see how the college student has reacted to the recent speeches of Landon when he toured the eastern section of the country. Perhaps the inroads made in the Roosevelt fortress may be much greater than any has conceived. It will also be intensely interesting to note what reaction the Townsend crusade has had on the younger people of the land. Will they approve or disapprove? It seems likely the last named will be the answer.

Faculty's Versatile Member

When Dr. Lawrence Kinnaird resigned his position on the State Faculty staff the air for blocks around was filled with wails of despair. The strange part of it all was that they were justified in a large measure. "Doc Kinnaird" as he was called was known by nearly everyone on the campus and had been the power behind many of the better ideas to make life for the student more enjoyable at the college. The Student Union idea was largely his and he was responsible for much of the progress made in the staging of athletic contests for the average student.

It was believed when he left that he would never be replaced, but strangely enough another Doc Kinnaird did appear. One who had all of the fine qualities of his predecessor, some of his own too.

The new man was in many ways a dark haired edition of "Doc Kinnaird." He had the same easy dignity and sense of humor and the graphic way of telling stories that the genial doctor had. However, the new man has earned for himself a new title of "Versatility Man" of the faculty. Usually it is the exception rather than the rule to find an expert on European History who has accomplishments along other lines at the same time. It was known before by the heads of the school but only discovered recently by the students themselves that the new member of the faculty was also a journalist of some experience. Then to add to this it was found out the other night at a fraternity meeting that he could handle the keys of a piano like a virtuoso.

He looks to us like the kind of a fella that can fence and box too. We wouldn't even be surprised if he could make an airplane act too. We would like at this time to introduce the man who stepped into "Doc Kinnaird's" shoes and filled them. Presenting Mr. Gibson of the History department of State.

LIDLIFTER

Dear Lid Lifter:

I noticed in the last issue of the Gater some comment on the good old song, "What's Wrong with the Co-op?" Now I feel that I have a legitimate complaint to make about this worthy institution and I wish to voice it now.

At the best, conditions are very crowded in the doorway of the co-op restaurant. The worthy place, feeling that squeezing in and out of two doors wasn't nearly hard enough, so they locked one of them.

Then some moron felt that the candy counter (with both varieties of candy on it) should be placed on the opposite side from where it was. Therefore and by which we all file past in a single line to add to the general confusion.

Does this HAVE to go on much longer?

Down In Front

By ED. SMITH

Now that the Marine game is over the boys will really settle down to a hard life of ironing out the defects of their attack. Accounting for their first game nervousness, I still think that we have the best team that State has ever had. And to think that the whole team will be together for three years, with a few exceptions, is really something to look forward to. It will mean that a standard will be set that will remain for every potential athlete to look up to.

To those of you who glimpsed Roberts' Field for the first time Friday night, you may have been disappointed. But to those who have seen it grow from a dump pile to what it is can revel in its glory. The long hard hours that the laborers put in the planning of the field, the building of the stands that is what transformed it. A select group, and not by choice, mainly Mr. Cox, Mr. Farmer, Mr. Hadden, George Bogdonoff, Alan Howard, Bob Marcus, George Miranda and Ru Stone have given precious hours of their time to build a dream into reality. They have sweated, blistered their hands and gone without sleep so that the students could be proud of their field. In three short months, I have witnessed this miracle, a phoenix, risen from the ashes, to become one of the proud possessions of San Francisco.

To those of you whom I have named personally, we can never express our thanks in mere words, for even though most of us do not realize it now, we will in years to come. To those of you who were disappointed, I am hoping that you will, from my short description of Roberts' Field, realize there is more to the surface.

With the exception of the lighting system, Roberts' Field was built by student labor, and I personally present to each one of them, on this day, orchids, seeds of them.

Saga Story Brings Tear

Football Coaches Wonder And Wonder As Teams Play Elsewhere

This is a saga story. In fact it is the saga of two football coaches, plus one publicity man. In fact, it is too good to keep to ourselves. So here goes.

It seems that the football coaches had the idea of scouting the rival teams. A very splendid idea, my dear Watson. So our story begins. From this point it is a tale of fruitless wanderings in the cold gloom of night.

Hale and hearty, the trio started out. Dashing madly to the ferry, they caught the last possible boat that would allow them to be in the wilds of Marin county by game time.

Neither cops nor women and children could stop the breathless trio as they raced along Marin county roads. They must see that crucial game. Faster and faster they sped, urged on by that old do or die spirit. The Purple and Gold will triumph, and all that.

Finally the stadium loomed in the dusk of night. No lights shone from the bowl. Darkness reigned. "Ah, we're early," chortled one of the gallant adventurers. Gleelessly the trio invaded the stadium. Choice seats were theirs for the asking. The notebooks were out. The pencils were sharpened.

Hours passed. Still no teams, no spectators and no lights. Finally the trio in desperation invaded the outer precincts of the bowl. To find, that the game was being played some hundred miles away in another city.

And that is the saga of the fearless trio.

HERE AND THERE
ON OTHER
GRID FIELDS

San Francisco Junior College defeated Marin Junior College 12 to 6 in a game played at Kentfield Friday night. Marin's only score came on a pass, Francis to Allen, that was good for 40 yards. Charles Brickley recovered a fumble on the Marin five yard marker to pave the way for the first score by the Rams. Late in the fourth quarter the San Francisco team pushed over another touchdown on a reverse from Clark to Morrison that was good for 20 yards.

Gold Plated Orchids To Him

All In All It's Facts

Brickbats To The Orphans

This week we give the gold plated orchids to a fellow that wouldn't admit he was down. To Renfrew, who said, "Let me down, I can walk," in that Mare Island Game, we give everything in the book. Even with a broken leg, he tried to fight on in the game. That, dear readers, is what marks the new spirit that is being developed here at the college.

Brickbats and Bouquets

While we're tossing bouquets, we'll slip in a brick and let sail at the so-called college, San Francisco Junior College. That poor orphan institution has dared to make itself obnoxious. Through paint and a poor sense of humor we find our senior bench finished in a nice brown color. Even though that happens to be anything but the colors of the jaycee.

It should make for a rivalry that will equal the famed Stanford-California battles. Through these self same tricks, the older colleges have created a spirit of do-or-die that is climaxed only by the big game.

Game a Natural

The game this year should be a natural. State, for the first time in years, is able to field a team that has a reserve for practically every position. Of course the comparison of players can't be made on their work in the game last Friday.

Speaking of the San Francisco game, we note that the orphans seem pretty confident that the so-called "Rams" will be on the long end of the score. In fact they are willing to lay the bobs on the line to support their quaint statements.

Ye editor and this self same scribbler are in a fix. What with no bobs jingling in these pockets and his too, we cannot cash in on some of the money that is floating around.

Of course, as a service to the college, we will be very glad to make a contact with these upstarts from Powell Street. In fact, if some king person would be willing to make a small loan of a jit or two we would like to place our faith in the Purple and Gold. Of course we would expect the best in odds.

This isn't our policy at all. We don't wager our bobs because we have very few bobs to wager. But we can't pass up a chance like this, oh my no!

Which Reminds Us

Which reminds us, Intramural starts this week. Scheduled to open yesterday, the touchtackle league should provide some noontime exercise for a few of the stalwart lads of the campus.

Add to the which reminds us. That some meanest thief broke into the locker room Saturday night. At this writing we haven't received the details. It seems to be a practice lately of picking on locker rooms. We note that somebody entered the Minnesota locker room up north and cleaned the boys out. It happens that the coaches have been the victims in this latest theft here at State.

We're putting in a call for Bob Schiller. In fact, we're paging him. We would like to see him in Publications office, inasmuch as he is signed up for a journalism class. It's a gentle reminder. Maybe we can get him to do this column, so we can catch up on a lot of lost sleep.

So thankfully, not thankfully, or otherwise, we write 30 to the column for this week. P. S. We hate columns.

Intramural Football Begins on Monday

Intramural football starts Monday on the school athletic field. According to Ed Smith, director of the organization, the "amateur hour" is scheduled to kickoff at 12:15 noon.

Unofficially, entries in the league will include last year's winners, the Newman Club, the Fresh Ducks, and the SOA and SOB Gym classes, and it is hoped that many others will sign up as soon as possible. A purple ribbon will be pinned on the team winning the league and a gold one for the runner-ups.

Any campus organization is welcome to enter a team and anyone not a Block S member is eligible. Players will wear gym suits and football shoes will not be permitted.

The games, refereed by Joe Paiva, will be divided into 12 minute halves with one minute intermission, and end at 12:45. Any team scheduled for a meet will have to be ready for action at 12:15 or it forfeits the game.

State Downs Mare Island Team, 26-0

(Editor's Note: This story was written by Ernest Miguel and Ed. Smith, the former getting the facts and the latter condensing them. Hereafter, all results of games will be covered by two reporters.)

A purple wave swept over green Roberts' Field last Friday night, sweeping the opposition, the Mare Island Marines, completely off their feet. Quickly scoring in the first quarter, the Purple and Gold grid machine was never threatened in the remaining laps.

Climaxing a 56 yard drive by Harkness and Hopkins, Bill Abbey had the honor of making the first touchdown on Roberts' Field on a quarter-back sneak off of right guard, and followed this with the first conversion. The second score came as the result of two blocked kicks. The first kick was blocked by Bill Ferem and was recovered by Schutz on the Apprentice 8 yard line. The second kick was blocked by Gordon Thomas, and Bob Scharter, guard, scooped up the ball and ran the remaining 5 yards to score. Bill Abbey failed to convert.

The third score came late in the second period, when Captain Bill Harkness intercepted Schutz's pass on State's own 45 yard line and ran the ball back to the Apprentice 20 yard line. From there Harkness threw a pass to Chet Phillips that was good for 18 yards, and on the next play, Bob "Poppa" Robinson ran off tackle for the score. "Red" Thompson drop kicked for the conversion, making the score 20 to nothing. With about two minutes remaining in the second half, Bob Kelnhofer intercepted Schutz's pass on the Apprentice 45 yard line and ran the ball back to the 22 yard line. On the next play, "Babe" Kropkin, of the Marines, intercepted Robinson's pass on the 15, where he returned it to the 20. Schutz's attempted pass was blocked by Ru Stone, and fell into the waiting arms of Hal Beseman, who ran the ball to the eight yard line, where the gun robbed the Staters of a chance to score again.

The final tally came in the middle of the fourth quarter, when State gained possession of the ball on a penalty for holding against the Apprentices on the 20 yard line. Bob Kelnhofer rambled around right end for 15 yards and a first down. From there, Bill Harkness went the remaining 5 yards on an off-tackle slant and scored standing up, without a man laying a hand on him.

Although the game was marred by frequent penalties on both sides, it was a splendid example of what spirit can do to the boys. There was no talking in State's huddle, the boys performed their assignment to the letter, and all in all they played a bang up game. But let us hope that in next Friday night's encounter with Marin J. C. the boys do not play like they did in the second half of this game. They appeared to let down, way down, in the third quarter; they may have thought that it was a chess game, now you move, now I move.

The Gater's pass defense was clicking, but their passing attack will have to be brushed up.

Salinas J. C. S. R. In Tie

At Santa Rosa, the Santa Rosa Junior College and Salinas Junior College battled to a six to six tie in a game Friday night. Scandan scored for Salinas when he recovered a blocked kick. Santa Rosa accounted for their touchdown after recovering a kickoff fumble made by Woods of Salinas.

Grid School For Stadium

Sobrero To Head New Plan Aiding Future Stars Of Game

Roberts' Stadium will play a major part in a new campaign to educate the coming football stars of tomorrow. The project, sponsored by one of the afternoon newspapers, will be under the guidance of Frank Sobrero, former Santa Clara star. It will have as its aim the teaching of the proper way to play the game with the minimum of injuries.

After the tutelage of Sobrero, the young aspirants to grid fame will be taught the proper way to block, tackle and protect themselves when tackled. In addition, the football school will devote special time to the development of the kicking art of the game. Seasonal prizes will be awarded for this part of the school.

The start of the school, to be held on Saturday mornings, will mean the first step towards recognition of Roberts' Stadium in the athletic life of San Francisco.

Use of the field was secured through the efforts of Coach Dave Cox. Cox has long been an advocate of the instruction of the younger generation in the art of protecting themselves from sports injuries, especially football. The school under Sobrero will be open to boys of pre-high school ages.

Dr. Lane Speaker At American Student Union Meet Here

Address Based Upon San Francisco Waterfront Situation; General Strike Seen In the Near Future; Agent For Arbitration Encouraged

"How can we create an organization with a will to peace rather than a will to war?" This was the question presented by speaker Dr. Herrick Lane in an informal address at the last meeting of the American Student Union. The subject of Dr. Lane's talk, "Are You Looking Forward," hinged on the waterfront situation in San Francisco.

Dr. Lane opened his address by declaring the need of an intermediate body to act as a wedge or referee group in the maritime situation. He suggested this function be exercised by such an organization as the A. S. U.

According to Dr. Lane all the elements are provided for a general strike. A deadlock exists between the two groups because the unions are not willing to arbitrate any issue endangering the integrity of their organization. Unless some means of reaching an agreement is provided soon, industrial warfare will result. The necessity for an agency which would encourage arbitration is evident. Such an agency could also act as a source of unprejudiced information for the benefit of the public.

The possibilities and means of securing peace were also discussed by Dr. Lane. He explained that organization will eventually bring war, but not until our economic system has been changed. Only war but poverty, strikes, lockouts, unemployment and industrial dictatorship are inherent in our present system. In order to combat these conditions it is necessary to bring pressure against the executives of government, compelling them to enact and enforce such laws as are essential. This power can only be derived from organized forces. At his point Dr. Lane closed his address.

Business of the meeting included the election of a treasurer which honor was bestowed upon

New Teacher Spoke For World Tomorrow Series

"In a Strange Land: the History of Inherited Cultural Values," given by George Gibson, new at State here as an instructor in history, at the Frederic Burk Auditorium under the World Tomorrow lecture series.

This lecture was given the topic of America, the inheritor of culture. There is to be one more lecture in this section.

About two hundred students are now enrolled in the lecture course and registration for the course was closed last Monday night.

According to Miss Mary L. Kleinecke, associate professor of English here, the series (of lectures) is designed to enlighten each of us; to reveal to us our inheritance as Americans; our inheritance of all the richest culture of the world brought to America from the Orient, from Europe, from Asia—to assist us in realizing our full American manhood and womanhood. Miss Kleinecke is the chairman of the committee in charge of the presentation of the series.

Repair Job For Office

George Miranda and Darryl Hopkins Do Painting Job

Members of the executive board have no place "to rest their bones" for the time being since the Associated Students Body office is being renovated.

Darryl Hopkins, Associated Student Body Treasurer, stated that the ceiling will be calcimined, floors and walls painted, desks and chairs shellacked, and draperies and carpets cleaned. When asked about how much the job will come to, Mr. Hopkins replied that he did not know, but that the money to pay for it was coming from the A. S. B. fund.

"George Miranda and I are doing all the painting, and the recompense for our service is entirely in the hands of Mr. Nee," remarked Hopkins.

In a very commanding tone Hopkins also declared:

"After the office is completed it will be no place for students who merely wish to gather and converse. It will be purely a business office, as it should be."
